

Everything You Always Wanted To Know About The Opposite Sex

Presented by Lori Hart Ebert, Ph.D.
CAMPUSPEAK, Inc.

References:

Evans, Gail (2003). She Wins, You Win. New York: Penguin Group

Evans, Gail (2000). Play Like A Man Win Like A Woman. New York: Random House.

Gilligan, Carol (1983). In A Different Voice. New York: Harvard University Press.

Glass, Lillian (1993). He Says, She Says: Closing the Communication Gap Between The Sexes. New York: Berkley Publishing Group.

Gray, John (2003). Truly Mars & Venus. New York: HarperCollins Publishers, Inc.

Gray, John (1992). Women Are From Mars, Men Are From Venus. New York: Harper Collins Publishers, Inc.

Tannen, Deborah (1990). You Just Don't Understand: Women and Men in Conversation. New York: Harper Collins Publishers, Inc.

To provide feedback about this program, log on to www.collegespeakers.info.

Lori can be reached at ebert@campuspeak.com or 404-816-0111.

To book Lori or other CAMPUSPEAK, Inc. speakers, call 303-745-5545 or visit the website at www.campuspeak.com.

A MAN is often measured by the things he cannot control.
He is measured by the number of beers he can drink or not drink, by the kind of car he drives and whether or not he's at the bottom, middle, or top of the corporate ladder.

He is measured by each of the numbers in his six-figure paycheck, by all the outside things that don't ever add up to who he is on the inside.

And so if a man is to be measured,
let him be measured by the things he can control,
by who he is and who he is trying to become.
Because as every man knows, measurements are only statistics and statistics lie.

~Nike

A WOMAN is often measured by the things she cannot control.
She is measured by 36-24-36 and inches and ages and numbers, by all the outside things that don't ever add up to who she is.

And so if a woman is to be measured,
let her be measured by the things she can control,
by who she is and by who she is trying to become,
because as every woman knows, measurements are only statistics and statistics lie.

~Nike