A storyteller sharing critical lessons about student leadership and human potential through stories of normal people facing extraordinary opportunities.

SHAVING THE YAK

STEVE WHITBY challenges you to act now on the choices in front of you, instead of complaining about how hard, complex or un-winnable you think these problems are. Sometimes, your leaders and your groups get stuck on things that simply aren't important; a particular campus tradition, campus expectation or habit might feel critical, but it's actually holding you back from what you could be doing. This keynote is about readjusting your focus, rediscovering your purpose, and making those critical first steps toward something new and meaningful.
